

AutoGen is an advanced tool designed to assist developers in harnessing the capabilities of Large Language Models (LLMs) for various applications. The primary purpose of AutoGen is to automate and simplify the process of building applications that leverage the power of LLMs, allowing for seamless integration, testing, and deployment.